About Annual Fire School
Each year, thousands of fire service personnel from municipalities and industries around the world participate in intensive weeklong training courses that make up the annual fire schools. Courses range from basic to advanced levels and are taught by hundreds of guest instructors, each experienced in specific areas of emergency response. What makes Spring Annual School unique is the combination of municipal and industrial emergency response personnel training at the same time.

About TEEX-Emergency Services Training Institute (ESTI)
The Texas A&M Engineering Extension Service Emergency Services Training Institute (TEEX-ESTI) is home to the 300 acre complex of the Brayton Fire Training Field, Disaster City®, and the Emergency Operations Training Center in College Station, Texas, as well as the Center for Marine Training and Safety in Galveston, Texas. Last year, we trained more than 120,000 people from around the world in 130 emergency response discipline areas. For more information, visit http://teex.org/esti.
